ANNUAL REPORT OF SCHOOL BOARD

Another school year, with its varying conditions of toils, cares, trials, disappointments, hopes, realizations, joys, and satisfactions, has passed ; and it becomes our duty to place before the public a resume of the work as it has passed through our hands and under our supervision.

In the spring there were four schools of ten weeks each. In the fall there were four schools with thirteen weeks. By uniting four districts into two districts we were able to have more number of weeks.

We think that the school board were successful in procuring good teachers and as a whole the scholars have made good advancement during the past season. The teachers have steadily and persistently labored, undismayed by obstacles, undiscouraged by embarrassments. They have not attempted to force knowledge into receptacles which are unable or unwilling to contain it ; but to bring forth those faculties and powers which God has given the child in a natural and wholesome development in accordance with the general law for the race and special characteristics of the child. What a task is theirs ! to teach a child to think, to strengthen the memory, to quicken the imagination, to guide the judgment, and not only so, but if their work be well done, to train the heart. If as Addison says, "Education is to the human soul what sculpture is to the block of marble," surely the unsparing pains taken by the sculpture as stroke by stroke and inch by inch he gradually fashions the stone into form of grace, nobleness and beauty, are but an emblem of faithful and loving toil with which through weeks and months the teacher artist labors to transform his infinitely more susceptible material into conformity with his own ideal of character. Have you ever thought of the difference between the way in which Michael Angelo regarded his block of marble and the way in which the same block was regarded by the stone-cutter in the quarry, or the drayman who carted it to his studio? There was, doubtless, a tender, reverential care, even in lifting into its place, exerted by the artist which would be impossible in the workmen, from the lack of thought that are in them. The teacher, in dealing with his pupils, should differ as much from other people as the great sculpture differs from other men in viewing and dealing with his block of marble; only the teacher's conception should be as much grander and her aim as much higher as the completely developed man or woman is superior to the inanimate, senseless marble.

Grateful for the forbearance with which our labors have been received, and hopeful for the future success and prosperity of the school which we supervise, we turn our back to the old, and our faces to the new, and may we hope better things.

S. IVANETTE GRAY,	} Board of Education.
